

Website Privacy Policy

The Acton Fall Fair has developed this website as a public resource for individuals wanting information about the Fall Fair.

Personal Information

We only collect personal information that you choose to give us (for example, your e-mail address when you e-mail us).

Any personal information you provide will be used to respond to your message and/or provide you with the requested information.

We do not collect your personal information if you browse or download from our web site. To the extent that our web server may collect IP addresses, that information is used only for the operation and security of our web site and cannot identify a specific person directly.

Acton Fall Fair recommends that unencrypted personal information should never be circulated over the Internet or by e-mail.

Cookies

Acton Fall Fair website does not use cookies.

A cookie is a small file containing certain pieces of information that a website creates when you visit the site. It can track how and when you use a site, which site you visited immediately before, and it can store that information about you. A cookie is not a program, code or plug-in.

There are two common types of cookies, "session cookies" and "persistent cookies." Session cookies store information only for the length of time that you are connected to a website - they are written to a temporary location on your hard drive. Once you leave the website, the originator of the cookie no longer has the information that was contained on it.

The information stored in "persistent cookies" is written onto your hard drive and remains there until the expiry date of the cookie.

Currently, browsers other than IE (IE6 and later versions) and FireFox do not distinguish between session cookies and persistent cookies. If you are concerned about having your browser enabled to accept cookies while you are surfing other websites, we recommend that you enable your browser to notify you when it is receiving a cookie. This enables you to accept or reject any cookie presented by the web server you are visiting.

External sites

If you visit any of the visible external links listed on our web pages, we cannot guarantee the following: the content of the external site, how they use personal information, or their privacy practices. When entering another website, you may find that it has its own privacy policy or statement that you can review in determining whether to proceed.
